U. S. Forces Push Drive Against Japs In Gilberts

Gilbert Island Group Offensive Being Widened

Marines Give Battle To Japs On Third Atoll Of Pacific Island Group

JAP GROUND FORCES RESIST STUBBORNLY

By CLINTON GREEN

(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

PEARL HARBOR, Nov. 23.—United States Marines widened the scope of the American offensive in the Central Pacific today by giving battle to the Japs in a third atoll in the Gilbert Island group.

Headquarters of Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, commander-in-chief of the Pacific fleet, revealed that highly trained marine units had invaded Abemama atoll, 100 miles southeast of the Tarawa atoll in the expanding drive to crush Nippon's island outposts.

The communique announced that Yank forces which previously went ashore in the Tarawa atoll and Makin under cover of heavy naval shelling and aerial bombardment were pressing gains against the Japs at both places.

Improve Positions
Admiral Nimitz said that Yanks had improved their positions but reported the American invasion units still were encountering considerable resistance from Jap ground forces.

The admiral's communique referred only to ground resistance and there was no indication that the Nipponese had called upon naval forces or airplanes in an attempt to stem the American assaults.

The terse communique gave no detailed description of the continuing battle.

PA NEW OBSERVES

Just in case you might be interested, the sale of coffee was stopped one year ago yesterday, preparatory to rationing. Rationing of the beverage only lasted a few months, however, and one can get all he wants now.

This morning turned out to be the coldest of the fall to date, the official temperature being recorded as 21 degrees at the water plant. Slightly lower marks were reported from the outlying sections.

There will probably be little exterior holiday decoration displays during the coming Christmas holiday period, in this district. For the second time, street holiday lighting will be eliminated because of the war, and there will be little residence decorating, it is indicated.

Indications are that most of the holiday travel in this district over the Thanksgiving holidays will be by service men and women. Civilian travel will be largely limited. Lack of gasoline and crowded conditions of trains, buses, etc., make it the part of wisdom to curtail all unnecessary traveling over the holiday period.

In 1942, there were 4,117 deaths from tuberculosis in Pennsylvania. Twenty nine of these were in Lawrence county, 1 under 15 years of age, 19 between the ages of 15 and 44, and 9 over 45. Twelve of these were men and 17 women. The aim of the Lawrence County Tuberculosis Society is to control and prevent tuberculosis through education, tuberculosis testing and X-ray. Thus finding the early case. Purchase of Christmas Seals gives support to the work.

'Short Cut' Route To Japan Aim Of Attack

By JOSEPH A. BORS

(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—Secretary of the Navy Knox today described the current American offensive in the Gilberts as the beginning of a new campaign to drive the Japs out of Truk and other mandated islands on a "short cut" route to Tokyo.

"This operation is the beginning of a new campaign against the Japs from the Central Pacific on a much more direct route to Japan," Knox told his news conference. The secret-

tary described the principal strategic objectives of the American invasion of Tarawa, Makin and Abemama Islands as follows:

Shorten Supply Lines
"The first is to drive the Japs out of the mandated islands.

"The second is to shorten by hundreds of miles our own supply lines to the Southwest Pacific.

Allied Troops Battle Forward In New Guinea

Australian Jungle Fighters Now Within Half Mile Of Sattelburg

FIVE JAP CARGO VESSELS ARE SUNK

By FRANK ROBERTSON

(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS In The Southwest Pacific, Nov. 23.—Battlewise Australian jungle fighters of Gen. Douglas MacArthur's command, supported by tanks and artillery, today fought their way forward to within a half-mile of the Japanese jungle stronghold at Sattelburg, northwest of Finschhafen in New Guinea.

Simultaneously, according to Gen. MacArthur's communique, Allied airmen delivered new blows from the sky at enemy shipping and reported sinking five Japanese cargo vessels and probable destruction of at least three more.

Destroy Jap Planes
During these air attacks Allied bombers and fighters shot down eight Jap planes and destroyed a ninth on the ground. Five other enemy planes were listed as "damaged" or lost two aircraft.

In the Solomon sector of the South Pacific front, American torpedoes and dive bombers struck out at Nipponese troop concentrations on Bougainville island, "softening up" the Japs for advancing American soldiers and marines. Jap installations from Marakawa to the Mibo river were blasted with 62 tons of bombs, and many fires in supply dumps were seen.

Fighter-escorted bombers returned for the second successive day to plaster the enemy's air base at Gasmata, New Britain, where 49 tons of explosives were unloaded. Target areas at Gasmata were "obliterated by smoke and dust," the communique declared. Our planes met no air opposition.

Germans Declare Martial Law In Cities In Italy

LONDON, Nov. 23.—(INS)—German occupational forces in Italy today declared martial law in Milan, Florence, Como and Parma on the heels of "major disturbances," according to an Algiers radio dispatch quoted by Exchange Telegraph. (The Geneva newspaper La Suisse today reported from Chianasso that puppet Fascist government officials in northern Italy had declared a state of siege in the Reggio district of Emilia province and had seized 30 hostages in an effort to combat the increase in "political crimes.") The Swiss dispatch, reported to the Office of War Information in Washington, quoted the Fascist press as saying the hostages would be shot if further assassinations occurred and the assassins were not identified.

A dispatch from Bern—which quoted no source for the value of its information—said 1,000 persons already had been slain in a "blood bath" at Ferrara.

Tregaskis, who went ashore with United States marines in the initial landing on Guadalcanal in the Solomons and is author of the book "Guadalcanal Diary" which recently was made into a motion picture had been on the fifth army sector of the battlefield north of Naples.

By ROBERT NIXON

(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—President Roosevelt laid before Congress today a three-point program for post-war financial assistance to the 11,300,000 members of the American armed forces.

The chief executive asked Congress for immediate action to "give notice to our armed forces that the people back home do not propose to let them down."

Mr. Roosevelt's recommendations were another step in a vast rehabilitation program to provide jobs, education and financial aid to ease the readjustment period for the nation's fighting men and women when the Axis is finally crushed.

"The Congress will agree, I am sure, that this time, we must have plans and legislation ready for our returning veterans instead of waiting until the last moment," the president said.

He recommended that Congress: "Enact legislation and provide funds for uniform, reasonable mustering-out pay to all members of the armed forces upon their (Continued On Page Nine)

German Army Badly Battered Along Dnieper

Almost Completely Cleared Out On Right Bank Below Rechitsa

NAZI COUNTER-BLOWS REPULSED BY REDS

By NATALIA RENE

(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

MOSCOW, Nov. 23.—The German army has been so badly battered by the Soviets that they have almost completely cleared out from their positions on the right bank of the Dnieper river below Rechitsa, according to battlefront reports reaching Moscow today.

In this area the Nazi resistance remains only at the river crossings these dispatches stated, and at these points horrible casualties are being suffered by the enemy.

The Soviets now are only 15 miles east-northeast of Znamenka, front-line advice said. Znamenka is an important railroad point situated 40 miles southwest of Kremenchuk, and its capture by the Russians would cut off two additional lines of evacuation for the embattled Nazi forces at Krivoi Rog.

Counter-Attacks Driven Back
Furious German counter-attacks have been driven back by the Red army west of Kiev and inside the Dnieper Bend southwest of Dnepropetrovsk, the Russian high command announced in its communique.

The American offensive of air, sea and land in the central Pacific, which has thus far seen Marines and Army infantry storm ashore on the islands of Makin, Tarawa and Abemama, resembles no peacetime procedure so much as the operations of a battery of stumps.

The Pacific between Japan and the Allied bridge-heads in Hawaii and Australia is thickly sprinkled with islands, like stumps in a cut-over wood-land. At present practically all these islands are occupied by Japanese garrisons, large

Greatest Travel Jam Is Expected

'First Come, First Served' Is Rule To Guide Transportation Officials Over Holidays

CHICAGO, Nov. 23.—(INS)—"First come, first served" was announced today as the only rule that will guide transportation officials for what is expected to be the greatest Thanksgiving travel jam in the nation's history.

"With rail travel increased 60 per cent over last year, it's difficult to figure out how we're going to pack in any more over the Thanksgiving holiday," a spokesman for the New York Central railroad declared.

In most terminals soldiers and sailors on furlough are being seated before civilians are permitted to enter the trains.

Airlines officials said all seats on westbound planes have been sold out for days.

Bus company officials also were preparing for the greatest holiday travel in history.

The statement acknowledged that Samos rendered useless by Nazi occupation of surrounding islands, was evacuated "several days ago."

German forces took nearby Leros last week and ever since last Friday have put forth various claims asserting that Samos has been occupied.

Prepare For Action

To get through this stump-pull is our Pacific problem. Since Pearl Harbor, American industry has created a new fleet amply able to wipe out the Japanese navy and an air force powerful enough to destroy Japan's paper cities. But how to get at them is the question.

Teams of air, sea and land forces have been built up and trained to do the job of stump-pulling on each island in turn. First there is strategic bombing by long range, land-

Greatest Bomb Raid On Berlin Made Last Night

Estimate Nearly 3,000 Tons Of Bombs Are Dropped On Nazi Capital

TERRIFIC DAMAGE IS CAUSED BY ATTACK

BULLETIN

(International News Service)

LONDON, Nov. 23.—In one of the greatest air offensives in history, the Royal Air Force last night wrought devastation upon the center of Berlin and blasted war factories in the German capital's suburbs out of existence with 2,300 tons of bombs, official details disclosed today.

It was the heaviest raid ever carried out against Berlin and one of the most damaging wrought upon any city of Nazi Europe since the war began.

By LEO V. DOLAN

(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

LONDON, Nov. 23.—Berlin was rocked during the night by the heaviest weight of bombs were hurled from the sky on the German capital and vast areas of the city were left in flames, official Canadian and British communiques announced today.

The possibility that the raid was the greatest single assault against any city in the history of aerial warfare arose from unofficial computation which placed the bombweight dropped on Berlin in the neighborhood of 3,000 tons. More conservative estimates said that a minimum of 2,000 tons were hurled at the capital.

The bomb load included many 4,000-pound "cookie" block-busters and the usual showers of tens of thousands of incendiaries.

Heavyweight bombers of the British Royal Air Force and Royal Canadian Air Force flew side by side over Berlin to bombard the Reich capital in "very great strength."

Heaviest Yet

Separate communiques were issued by the air ministry and R. C. A. P. headquarters. The latter announcement said the attack "was the heaviest yet made on the German capital."

Secretary Perkins Gives Report On Cost Of Living

WASH. (INS) — Secretary of Labor Perkins reported today that the cost of living increased four-tenths of one percent from mid-September to mid-October, due largely to increases in the price of eggs, clothing, medical services and laundry.

Secretary Perkins reported that a 7 percent seasonal rise for eggs contributed heavily to an increase of four-tenths of one percent in food prices over the past month.

Meats and fish rose one-half of one percent and beef edged up slightly, while increased marketing of hogs brought prices of all pork cuts down. Prices of potatoes rose in 21 of the 56 cities surveyed. Prices of cabbage, onions, spinach and sweet potatoes decreased from 5.1 per cent for cabbage to 19.2 per cent for spinach. Carrots rose 6.7 per cent, while fresh apples declined by nine-tenths of one percent.

"Higher retail prices for ready-to-wear articles allowed under the cost-plus margin regulations are reflected in higher clothing costs for October," the secretary said.

"Costs of miscellaneous goods and services rose 0.5 per cent from September 15 to October 15," Secretary Perkins said.

In Armstrong Co.

KITTANNING, Pa., Nov. 23.—Officers of 10 Armstrong county fraternal clubs were ordered Monday to appear Monday, November 29 before Justice Boyd C. Henry of Appleworth court, to answer charges of maintaining and operating gambling devices.

The charges were preferred by Corporal Marcus White of the Kittanning State Police sub-station following raids today on 11 clubs in Kittanning, Ford City, Freeport, Leeburg and Apollo, in which 41 slot machines were seized.

The raids were conducted simultaneously by Kittanning and Butler state police under supervision of Lieutenant M. J. Crowley, and the machine, of the "one-arm" band type, were found in all but one. The machines were turned over to Sheriff Ray Delaney for destruction by them by the court.

The Jap airdrome at Nauru, west of the Gilberts was heavily plastered again by B-24 Liberator bombers which diversionary attacks were made against enemy bases in the Marshall Islands to assist the American invasion forces.

All amphibious operations are under command of Rear Admiral Richmond Turner. Vice-Admiral John H. Hoover, commander of aircraft in the Central Pacific, is directing all land-based aerial operations.

Lieut. Col. James Roosevelt, son of the president who participated in a commando-type raid on Makin Aug. 17, 1942, returned with the army forces in the invasion assault.

Admiral Turner, broke naval precedent when late on the afternoon of Nov. 9 he met correspondents in his quarters aboard his flagship which was tied up at Pearl Harbor and told the newsmen going along on the operation just what was planned.

ACTION IN ITALY LARGELY STALLED BY HEAVY RAINS

Alfreda. At both points large fires were reported observed, indicating that the Nazis were preparing to flee the towns after destroying everything of military importance.

PUSH NORTHWEST The eighth occupied both Vastogirardi and San Pietro in its push to the northwest aimed principally at a vital road junction north of Rionero. The road just beyond Castel Di Sangro and Alfedena sweeps into Rome and would give the allies access to the shortest highway from the battlefield into the Nazi-held Italian capital.

In extending the bulge into the center of the German defense wall the eighth seized high ground just southeast of Alfedena and other strategic points around Castel Di Sangro.

The advance by the eighth at the northern end of its front which carried the British troops to within two miles of the Sangro river. Along the Adriatic sector brisk patrol clashes were found on the north banks of the Sangro.

Fresh rains which flooded the terrain into mud and turned the terraces again hampered operations but failed to stem allied progress.

Deluged With Rain The fifth army front also was deluged with rains. Frequent patrol stories were carried out in this western area on the fighting line and continued artillery duels were reported from the battlefield.

Light bombers, fighter-bombers and fighters operated over the battle area. Bomb loads were concentrated on motor transport and on gun positions of the Nazis who continued to strive desperately to reinforce the winter defense line.

Other allied aircraft ranged to the north to disrupt Nazi communications to hamper the movement of reinforcements and cut off possible avenues of retreat.

Algers, Nov. 23.—Further rain has transformed the Italian battlefield into a sea of mud and little activity took place on any sector of the battlefield from Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's headquarters said today.

"Rivers and streams are in flood," said the communique. "Little activity has been possible on any part of the front."

"Radio Algers reported two bombing assaults on the port of Civitavecchia, northwest of Rome, by allied bombers and attacks on airfields at Campino."

"BILL" NORTH RETIRES. COLUMBUS, O.—(INS)—Alumni of Ohio State University all over the world will view with regret the retirement of William "Bill" North, for 35 years chief of the campus police and one of the most popular and understanding men on the "oval."

Bill recalls when bicycle traffic and campus "spooning," as it was called in those days, were his main problems. For the first years of his service he was the campus' only officer. The campus force now consists of four uniformed officers and four watchmen with police powers, plus as many as 100 special officers for big football games or similar occasions.

CAPT. CRAIGE GIVES IDEA OF U. S. TASK IN PACIFIC

based bombers of the islands to be attacked and the nearby supporting bases. In the present Pacific operations, this lasted for more than a week.

Then the stomp-pulling team of naval and land forces moved in for close action on the islands selected to be captured. This amphibious team consisted of cruisers, destroyers, gunboats, etc., to lay down a heavy naval barrage under which the infantry might land from their transports and patent landing craft. The infantry apparently consisted of the Marine Second and the Army 27th divisions. According to the communications, the landings, critical stage of amphibious operations, were all successfully accomplished.

Fanatical Jap Resistance Once safely ashore, the American troops, with the support of their powerful air arm, and the mighty guns of the covering fleet, ought to make certain progress, although fanatical Japanese resistance may render it slow. Once the islands at present under attack are taken, the stomp-pulling machinery will be moved forward and the next series of stumps attacked.

Before it will be safe for the fleet to steam into Japanese waters, a roadway a couple of hundred miles wide will have to be rooted through the belt of Japanese islands. At least this was the figure calculated a dozen years ago before such things became military secrets.

Then the U. S. fleet can steam through to give final battle to the Mikado's navy, and American bombers based on islands can blast Japan's industrial cities to bits.

But before that happens, in all probability, the Japanese main fleet will sail out to fight the decisive Jutland-action of this war. That fleet is our Navy's supreme target. It may come out at any time, or it may not seek battle until its last island-fortresses are rooted out. But in every operation it is a threat. Undoubtedly America's battle fleet even now is lying in wait in case it may take this opportunity for a blow.

Statements and opinions herein are private to the writer and are not to be construed as reflecting the views of the Navy department.

Truk is believed to be the hideout of the major units of Japan's fleet which are not stationed in home waters.

Knox said that "up to the present time" no elements of the enemy's fleet has been seen.

"The current operations have not yet pulled the Jap fleet out of shelter," Knox added. "The nearest place for enemy warship concentrations is Truk."

Release More Ships The secretary explained that the seizure of the Gilberts would shorten greatly America's supply lines to the Southwest Pacific and thus release more ships for use because of the shorter haul.

He explained that the campaign was made possible only through America's tremendous sea-air superiority and he added that the Yankee assaults on the Gilberts were so powerful they encountered little enemy resistance from the air.

The secretary explained that the air assaults on Jap bases on the Marshalls were designed as a diversionary move to keep enemy planes from that area grounded while landings were in progress.

Knox made no mention of ground fighting which has been in progress in the Gilberts for more than three days. However, it was understood that the campaign was proceeding satisfactorily.

distance, in an effort to cut off enemy troops holding the Krivoi Rog sector.

An indication of the ferocity of the fighting may be gained by Moscow's report that in Monday's fighting more than 3,000 Nazis were killed, at least a third of them in the Kremenchug push.

Fierce armored battles rage at many points in the central and southern sectors of the front, during which 176 Nazi "panzers" were destroyed or put out of action Monday, making a two-day total of 365 German tanks destroyed or disabled. Most of the enemy armor became casualties during futile counter-attacks, Moscow said.

HOME FRONT PROBLEM

PENNSYLVANIANS are urged to vigorously combat the war-time problem of tuberculosis in an appeal approved and issued by the board of directors of the Pennsylvania Tuberculosis Society.

More than 4,000 deaths from tuberculosis in Pennsylvania in 1942 is plain evidence that this disease is a serious menace to the people of our state as they struggle to help conquer the nation's enemies by military means. There were 29 deaths from the disease in Lawrence county.

Tuberculosis is unquestionably a major public health problem in Pennsylvania. There are among the people of the state probably more than 50,000 who have tuberculosis, it is revealed.

In less than three years of Selective Service examinations more than 14,000 Pennsylvania young men were rejected for military service because of tuberculosis. By means of X-ray surveys a steadily increasing number of workers in industry are being found afflicted with the disease. Wars always have been accompanied by an increase in tuberculosis and for Great Britain and other countries abroad the present conflict is no exception. There is real danger of a similar experience in this country and in our state.

As we direct our thought and give our energy fully to the task of the world conflict we dare not neglect or become complacent regarding tuberculosis. To hold gains made against this disease and go forward to victory over it we must continue with all possible determination the strategy and the services that have been so successful in our campaign thus far.

The fight to conquer tuberculosis is waged by united and cooperating public health forces—the medical and nursing professions, the official agencies and the people in all communities, serving through their voluntary tuberculosis organizations.

It is urged that every citizen and resident of the state contribute generously in the approaching Christmas Seal sale to help bring tuberculosis under control.

STOCK MARKET INDICE

Several selling flurries in the New York Stock Exchange recently—set off by rumors of an early peace in Europe—have carried quotations down sharply in many issues, is interpreted by Wall Street observers as a temporary phase. There is nothing basically wrong with the market, they say.

Investors have been lending more than a casual ear to rumors that Germany might be about to ask an armistice. Many investors have begun revising their portfolios to discount a change-over to peace. Observers note that throughout this phase there has been a bed of solid resistance not far below the market.

Declines, it is pointed out, have been limited by two factors. First, many investors believe that the prospects of peace have been in investment market consciousness for months and already have been fairly well discounted. Second, there is the certainty that a German bid for an armistice would not bring the immediate collapse of Japan.

In the likely interlude between the end of fighting with Germany and the end of fighting with Japan, America will have ample time in which to make plans to ease the blow of a switch-over from war to peace in industry and business.

DEATH IN THE NIGHT

As winter approaches, fire losses soar upward, indicating that faulty heating installations are a prime factor in causing many dangerous fires. The National Board of Fire Underwriters has outlined a set of fire prevention suggestions with the statement that safety from fire goes hand-in-hand with efficient heating.

In order to avoid trouble with heating equipment, the board recommends precautions for everyone who operates a stove or furnace. First, the unit should be cleaned thoroughly every year and kept in good repair. In checking equipment, look for worn, broken or rusted parts and replace them. This check-up should include an inspection of smoke-pipes which may have become rusty or sagging. Any holes or open joints are dangerous, as sparks may fly out and ignite burnable material. If smokepipes are in poor condition, new ones should be installed and the board recommends that they be placed at a safe distance from combustibles, or that such materials be protected with sheet asbestos or metal with an air space between it and the material to be protected.

Chimneys also should be checked once a year. Clean out the soot and look for cracks and holes through which sparks might escape. Additional precautions are: Place hot ashes in metal containers instead of wood or cardboard cartons; be sure papers and rubbish are at a safe distance from the heating plant; do not permit accumulations. Everyone should recognize the need of special efforts in this war-time winter to conserve fuel and avoid preventable fires. Heating plant fires sweep with incredible speed through the heart of a house, often trapping and bringing swift death in the middle of the night to sleeping occupants. Now is the time to avoid this tragic fate in your home—before it is too late.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

CHILD MUST BE AGGRESSIVE

IF ALL the tots and runabouts in the United States and Canada who just won't fight, even in self-defense, were assembled in one group, it would be a vast number.

These non-resisting children usually are pathetic, for they are so unhappy, make their parents unhappy and grow dependent physically and emotionally on their parents. They are practically always quarrelsome, often are bullies and unless they learn to gain more courage, become timid, lonely, children, youth and adults. In the meanwhile they also are haunted continually with fears of all sorts. At school they may be the constant problem of their teachers; also constant problems of their teachers; also constant tattlers at home and school.

Unassertive Child
Bringing up the child to defend himself is not easy, as illustrated by the typical letter which follows.

"Would you please tell me how to help my son to become more assertive? Three years old, Dicky has a playmate, Arthur, the same age. Arthur is more aggressive and takes Dicky's candy, toys, shovel and bits and pushes him.

"However, when Arthur does something like this, Dicky cries and comes running to mother. My procedure, up to this point has been to pay no attention unless he really hurt or the crying continues for too long a time. When I do take him in the house after one of the battles he wants me to pet him and he tells me in self pitying tone that Arthur pushed me, or 'Arthur took my candy, etc.'"

"They can't play together for five minutes without having Dicky start to cry. He never carries it hit back or grab his toys. I am puzzled as to whether I should help him fight or whether I should sympathize with him."

"I am enclosing a self-addressed stamped envelope and I should sincerely appreciate any assistance you can give me."

The Doctor's Answer
As I wrote this mother, I am sure she is protecting, defending and pitying her little child far too much. So long as he is not being endangered physically, give him practically no protection or pity. If he loses his candy to the playmate, do not give him more. Act as if you don't hear him, being too busy, when he comes to you complaining about Arthur or crying. It is not easy to make yourself do this, of course, but you must if your lad is not to be a confirmed cry-baby and sissy.

It might help him to be in a nursery school or with another child of his age part of the time, who is not quite so aggressive as Arthur. Also, Arthur's mother would be wise to restrain her child as he dominates over any other child. Arthur needs to play with some other children of his age who are more nearly his match.

Mothers of babies and young children—Please do not tell your children not to fight. Let them fight in self-defense; encourage them to do so; set the stage so they surely will do so. It may be well to show the timid, fearful child as soon as he can understand, just how to use his bare hands well in self-defense. Some boys and girls between five and ten would profit greatly from boxing lessons. The child of eight or ten will be more ready to turn the other cheek if he feels sure he can take good care of this one.

LODGEKEEPERS' WIVES

Man is the creature, when everything's said.
Some lovely adorable woman must lead.
Comfort and flatter and smilingly bear.
Whatever he brings to life's portion of care.
Like many, to find for the rest of her life.
She is doomed to the fate of a lodgekeeper's wife.

One night every week by herself she will spend.
While he's off to lodge, "just to work on a friend."
For other nights, "sick calls" and "special affairs."
Will add to her grief and the medals he wears.
But the ultimate blow, when all hope will be sunk.
Will fall when he boasts: "I'm the High Monkey-Monk!"

Then many the banquets she'll have to attend.
With speeches she knows from beginning to end.
And that other device of the lodge going clasp.
The "key for the ladies"—they thoughtfully plan.
But her greatest of thrills and her richest reward
Will be seeing him rigged with full feathers and sword.

Here's to the patience, too deep for the pen,
Of all women devoted to lodge-going men.
Here's to the wisdom and good nature great
Which keep them contented in spite of their fate!
And here's to them all! May the Lord bless their lives
And be gracious, my brothers, and good to our wives!

HINTS AND DINTS

Sun sets tonight 5:39. Sun rises tomorrow 7:54.

Some of the things we have to do now would have seemed vicious not so long ago.

Truck drivers cannot get extra gas to haul Christmas trees. Remember away back when some of us walked several miles and carried a Christmas tree on our backs and did not have much to put on it?

Best bait for a rat, says an expert, on such matters, is porterhouse steak. Rats, it seems, are just something else we will have to endure for the duration.

PERT AND PERTINENT

"All great achievement have their root and inspiration in sex."—Prominent psychologist. Well, professor, how about studying the record and family history of the Missouri Mule?

"A genius seldom has a wife."—Recent magazine article. For the reason two geniuses can't live happily under the same roof.

"Husbands hunger for petting and a display of affection when they are sick."—Popular feminine writer. Why drag in the last four words?

"A little oil will improve the working of most automatic scales."—Advertisement. Except the scales of Justice.

Dewey is a historic name. Remember "Dewey did it?"

Many people are now doing difficult and thankless jobs. They are doing them to win the war.

A wallet snatcher out west has been arrested 96 times. The story of his career in four words: "Caught in a pocket."

Teacher to pupil: "Spell 'straight'." Pupil: "S-i-r-a-i-g-h-t."

Correct. What does it mean? "Without ginger ale."

Silence also seems to be quietly enjoyed at times.

Victory gardens produced 43 per cent of all the vegetables grown in 1943. Get ready to produce more next year.

Grandma, who was born in 1869, is feeling mighty spry ever since she read that OPA ruling that nothing is antique unless it's 75 years old.

A wealthy society matron had engaged a new maid and was instructing her in the duties of waiting on the table.

"At dinner, Mary," she explained, "you must remember always to serve from the left and take the plates from the right. Is that clear?"

"Yes, ma'am," answered the girl condescendingly. "What's the matter, superstitious or something?"

You may not know why men always have a row of buttons on their coat cuffs. They are there to make it convenient to wipe his nose on the sleeve.

What this country needs is a new kind of shaving cream that will taste good when you use it for toothpaste by mistake.

The colors the people of this country like best are Red, White and Blue.

People now like to have their friends tell them they have a bone to pick with them.

Another sad feature of fatherhood is that daughter is too old to spank when she decides to treat you like a "quaint old darling."

Well the difference between the old-time corner saloon and the modern home bar is that the saloon had self respect enough to "throw out the drunks."

A snob is one who would rather be the shoestring of a Duke than shake hands with a hero.

"Scientific progress is the horse that will pull us out of a postwar depression," says an industrialist. Provided we don't put the cart before the horse.

The chief cause of dissatisfaction with wages is the knowledge that others are getting more for less work.

LOOKING AT LIFE

By ERICH BRANDEIS

A boy in our neighborhood went around the house with his hat on. "Take off your hat," said his mother. "It's bad manners to wear it in the house."

"Gee, Mom," replied the boy "you're always talking about manners. What good are they, anyhow?"

That set me thinking. What good are manners? What do they accomplish? That all depends. Good manners are not just memorizing a book of etiquette. I know people who never eat peas with their knife, never use toothpicks in public, yet they are ill-mannered bores.

Good manners, you see, are inside of you. Anybody can sham courtesy, bow to the ladies, shake hands in exactly the proper loose-linked style. That's just like a cheap pine chair with a mahogany veneer. It comes off after a bit of use.

Manners are part of your character. They are part of kindness, consideration, respect, decency.

It's nothing against you if you have been born on the wrong side of the track.

Fortunately, in this country, if you have the brains, the persistence, the industry, you'll soon be able to move over on the right side.

But when you do move over, your wrong-side-of-the-track thinking behind.

You don't become a lady or a gentleman just by making a lot of money, eating in the right places, wearing expensive clothes and cultivating the right people.

You have to develop something that's inside of you—and if it isn't, if you don't develop it you'll only be a pitiful and ridiculous midget.

Money buys diamonds and orchids for a woman, but it doesn't buy her love.

Fine clothes and flashy jewelry may make you a glamorous girl or a pompous dowager. But it doesn't give you that indefinable charm which men admire.

I know a wealthy man who has all the polish of my chemism radiator ornament, but inside he is just as hard.

If he lost his money tomorrow not a one of his hundreds of "friends" would help him.

I know a woman who never paid more than ten dollars for a dress. But everybody loves her because she has the manners that come from the heart.

Manners, you see, aren't mannersisms.

NEVER EMERGENCY YOUR SUPERIORITY

Quite by accident and entirely without eavesdropping, I last night during a dance intermission, overheard an ardent man resorting to the worst possible technique in trying to gain the affections of an unwilling girl, with such pleadings and complaints as these:

"You don't like me, do you Betty? I've known it from the beginning."

"You've been trying to evade me, haven't you, all the time?"

"Is it on account of Jack that you don't admire me? What has he that I haven't got?"

"Most women like me, why don't you?"

"What can I do to make you like me?"

I could have answered that question in these few words:

Suggest to her your superiority, not your inferiority. Don't declare your superiority, but make your words and deeds reflect it. Thus radiate superiority without bragging about your ancestors, your family background, the honors you've earned in college and business.

Of course, there is a type of superficial girl, prompted by fortune-hunting mothers, who may seem to be impressed by boasts about your family's financial status and possessions—their high-priced cars, yachts, mountain lodges and seaside cottages. But the normal girl worthy of becoming the companion of your sisters and the mother of your children will be impressed primarily by your dignity, by the clarity in which you express your ideals and your philosophy of life, by your self-possession while in the presence of your elders and seniors, by the saving sense of humor with which you can parry the malicious thrusts of those trying to ridicule or belittle you.

Even a girl who really likes you may be persuaded to dislike you if you constantly suggest to her that she does.

Oyster In General's Lap Breaks Ice
Marshall's Trick Disperses Protocol
Milk Prescriptions Held Unnecessary

By HELEN ESSARY Central Press Columnist

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—Anecdotes on Gen. George C. Marshall are going the rounds in increasing numbers of late, spurred by his prominence in the global war. Here is one that comes well vouched for. It seems that during the early days of collaboration between the American and British high commands, there was much reserve, much standing on ceremony, that all disliked but didn't seem to know how to obliterate for an easy exchange of views. Marshall felt that progress was being impeded by diffidence of the medal-covered generals. So he gave a dinner party. The joint chiefs of staff committee was seated at one big table which bore no table cloth. One of the courses was oysters baked on the half shell and each diner was given a cotton glove, the better to handle the steaming bi-valves. Marshall was seated at one end of the shining table. When he was served he pretended to fumble in applying his fork to the oyster, and flipped a half-shell across the table into the lap of a top-flight British general. That did the trick. There was general laughter, and from that moment on, so the story goes, the Japs were broken and the Yanks and Limeys tossed aside protocol and got along beautifully together.

New flare-ups in Washington about British influence on the United States rationing system includes this one: That Robert Smallwood, a top executive of England's Lipton Tea company, is a "power behind the OPA throne" as far as policing goes.

High OPA officials assert, however, that Smallwood is merely acting in an "advisory capacity" as a consultant, working two or three days a week at OPA at the request of James Brownlee, business-chief of the organization's price department.

Nevertheless, the case calls to mind the experience of another Englishman who was called before the Boren committee of the house to tell congress about his part in forming OPA policies. He was Israel Moses Self, executive of a large British chain store system, also employed as an OPA consultant.

After big criticism from members of the congressional committee, Self severed his connections with OPA and returned to England.

Some Washington medics are criticizing the practice of a few of their colleagues who write milk "prescriptions" authorizing dairies to give preference to certain customers if faced with inadequate supplies for all.

Condemning the action as unethical, they say, to provoke a milk panic, these physicians contend moreover that it is unnecessary even from the standpoint of sick people and infants. All nutritional elements supplied by milk, they argue, can be obtained from other sources.

As far as baby products are concerned, they are non-essential, one eminent pediatrician, who asked that his name be withheld, explained. "The familiar soy bean, with the addition of some easily obtainable vitamins produces a perfect food easier and cheaper than it can be obtained from the cow."

The above-mentioned gentleman predicted, in short, a world without cows.

Already there are rumblings in congress. Harold L. Roach, vice president of the American Soy Bean association, hitting at discriminatory tax measures which he said insure the popularity of dairy products, urged the house agriculture committee to "let the cow stand on its own feet against the soy bean."

Jim Watson spent 40 years in house and senate representing Indiana. Jim was and is known as a greener, never failing to call a man—or woman—by first name. But he slipped once.

When Phil LaFollette of the Wisconsin LaFollette was governor of the Badger state he went to Indianapolis to address the Junior Chamber of Commerce. While being taken through the swank Columbia club Hoosier GOP stronghold, by his host, Jack Ruckelshaus, they encountered Jim.

With his usual effusiveness Jim threw his arms around both the boys, with a hearty greeting to Ruckelshaus, who broke in with a "Seater, you know, Gay, Phil LaFollette of Wisconsin."

"Know him? Know him!" Watson interrupted. "Of course I know him. Where is he? I want to shake hands with him!"

WASHINGTON—Rear Admiral Francis S. Low, assistant chief of staff, U. S. fleet: "The U-boat fleet is bent, if not broken."

NEW YORK—Sir Owen Dixon, Australian minister to the United States: "The greatest single service the United States could give the world would be to maintain its own prosperity."

The World and the Mud Puddles

JUST THAT

A labor leader who calls himself Thomas Vincent De Lorenzo when he isn't using some other alias, and who has been accused of having a large part in the production failures of the Brewster Aeronautical Corporation, has told a House naval affairs subcommittee that he lied about his income tax and failed to list his draft board. In fact he said frankly that he will lie "at all times to get a job and support myself."

This De Lorenzo is the same union boss who urged the C. I. O. abandonment its no-strike pledge to gain a stronger bargaining position "with the President of the United States," and who said that it is not labor's policy to win the war at any cost but to win "without sacrificing too many of labor's gains."

A self-confessed liar, De Lorenzo also is guilty, even if not technically so, of sabotage. A House subcommittee kept both management and workers in a ferment. Even now the production genius of Henry J. Kaiser has to be devoted to an attempt to get a trickle of planes from the giant plant.

Why, it may be wondered, does the labor movement tolerate the blackening of its name by such a scoundrel? The Department of Justice is seeking and probably

SEEK TO SOLVE BOOTLEG COAL MINE PROBLEM

HARRISBURG, Nov. 23.—(INS)—Gov. Edward Martin disclosed today that the departments of mines and commerce had been "drafted" to aid bootleg coal miners in the anthracite fields to legitimize their operations.

Secretary of Mines Richard Maize, Secretary of Commerce Floyd Chalfant and the governor conferred for an hour with free-lance mining representatives from the lower coal fields of northeastern Pennsylvania where bootlegging, a depression-born industry, is prevalent.

The miners have been urged to seek leases from companies owning the coal lands they are working in order to continue operations legitimately.

"We said we would help any of them we could if they would comply with the mining laws of Pennsylvania," the governor said. "We are going to try to make them legitimate and we drafted the departments of commerce and mines to assist along that line."

Governor Martin indicated, however, that a concrete solution had not yet been found for solving the problems of the 13-year-old industry. In reply to a question at his news conference whether a final settlement had been reached, he replied, "I don't know."

The November 30 deadline fixed by the state anthracite committee for a cessation of bootleg operations has not been changed, the governor added. He said enforcement was in the hands of the committee, a semi-official body, but hinted that state and county enforcement officers would be used if necessary.

POTATO CROP IS FAR ABOVE 1942

HARRISBURG, Nov. 23.—Although late planting and dry weather combined to reduce the yield per acre of potatoes in Pennsylvania this year, the wartime crop of 19,000,000 bushels was reported today to be 1,424,000 bushels ahead of last year's production.

According to information compiled as of November 1 by the Federal-State Crop Reporting Service in the State Department of Agriculture, 1943 potato production fell below expectations in virtually all sections of the state except in Potter county. At that time it was estimated that the yield per acre would be 108 bushels which is four bushels less than last year and 23 bushels below the 10-year average of 121 bushels, 1932-1941.

Pennsylvania farmers in their efforts to boost production this year increased the potato acreage from 157,000 to 176,000 acres. Their total contribution is a goodly share of the 469 million bushels forecast as the total production in the United States. According to the recent survey, Pennsylvania ranks eighth in production, Maine leading with more than 71 million bushels.

Pennsylvania potato harvest is nearly over, some late fields remaining to be dug in scattered localities, mostly in the northern sections of the state. Potter county potatoes are reported to be smooth and firm with few seconds and thirds. Some crops, planted with inferior seed, showed ring rot. Very spotty and low yields of small sized tubers were reported in the Lehigh-Northampton area and throughout most of the eastern counties.

The corn borer damaged potato vines in many localities of the southeast, especially the earlier maturing varieties. A few fields were abandoned and a good many others were barely worth digging, the report states.

Commercial potato growers report that their 1943 potato crop will grade 70 per cent U. S. No. 1 the same as a year ago.

TURKEY DINNER FOR HENRY HOME

Thirty-Five Children To Enjoy
Usual Thanksgiving Day
Dinner At Home

There will be the regular Thanksgiving turkey dinner for the inmates and staff of the Margaret Henry Children's Home on Thursday.

Mrs. Lida Green, matron, states that a number of the former children of the home will be present to enjoy the feast.

There are now 35 children being cared for at the home; 36 former boys are now in the armed forces many of them overseas on the various battlefronts of the world; some of these boys in service are expected at the dinner, provided their furloughs have not been cancelled.

Mrs. Green says that Christmas cards have been received at the home from their soldier boys in England, who mention that they have received Christmas packages from friends and church organizations here, for which they are very thankful.

Mr. and Mrs. Marcus Feuchtwanger, president of the board of directors, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Gerson and two daughters and Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Reed will be dinner guests.

Jack Gerson again furnishes the turkey, others donors are Chapman's Dairy, Rieck-McJunkin, Lawrence Bottling Co., A. & P. Market, Mrs. Homer Matthews, Boulevard and Canora, New Model Baking Co., New Castle Drug Co. and Mahoning Methodist Sunday school.

In the evening there will be a party for birthdays of Miss Bertha Patterson of the staff and Mrs. Catherine Seeley, formerly of the staff.

PURCHASE PLAN GIVEN

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 23.—(INS)—Pittsburgh's city council was advised today as to the procedure it should adopt if it wishes to purchase the South Pittsburgh Water Company. City Solicitor Anne X. Alpern explained it would be possible to buy the property by means of condemnation proceedings. The last valuation of the water works was about $13,000,000, but it was believed that because of an increase in business during the past few years, the value may have increased to $15,000,000, according to Councilman Thomas J. Gallagher.

COURAGEOUS GIRL

GRANTS PASS, Ore.—(INS)—A 17-year-old girl who served as a forest lookout in the Siskiyou national forest needed all her courage and resourcefulness when the lookout cabin caught fire and threatened to ignite the woods she was guarding. The girl, Orris Wood, had served through several uneventful months when she noticed smoke curling from the roof of the lookout cabin. She calmly climbed to the top of the isolated building with a pack pump on her back and put out the blaze.

The multiplication sign was devised simply by changing the plus sign into the letter X, as multiplication is only a shorter form of addition.

Says War Has Improved Health Of College Men

SYRACUSE, N. Y.—(INS)—That war conditions are improving the physical fitness of American college men is the conclusion which might be drawn from physical fitness indices just released by the department of physical education at Syracuse university. The scores for the men enrolled this fall show an average index of 114.2 as compared with that of 91.1 a year ago. Scores are based entirely upon the physical examination of civilian men.

The average score this year not only shows a 23 point improvement over that of a year ago but is five points higher than that revealed by tests at any previous time since physical index scores have been recorded at the university. Only 12 per cent of the individuals tested this year fell below the average of those tested a year ago.

The highest physical fitness score made by a civilian male student this year was 171 recorded by Enrique Gonzales of Popayan, Colombia, S. A. Fourteen points behind him in second place was Donald Mullen, 215 97th street, Brooklyn, N. Y. The physical fitness rating is essentially an indication of strength, final averages consisting of scores made on tests of arm, leg and back power, hand grip and lung capacity.

Registrations For Book Number Four Now Total 98,000

Decrease From 101,000 For Book Three Probably Due To Armed Service

Apparently the teachers of the city and county did a fine piece of work in registering householders for their Ration Book Number 4. Registrations for those who did not get them at the time specified in the three-day registration period have been going on for several days in the office of the War Price and Rationing Board and thus far less than 200 applicants have appeared.

The total of books issued is below that of the registration for Book Number 3 it was learned today. The number three book total was approximately 101,000. For number four the total is approximately 98,000. The difference is probably accounted for by the fact that many men who had number three books are now in the armed forces.

Place Injunction On Turkey Prices

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 23.—(INS)—The Pittsburgh district Office of Price Administration today placed an injunction against Alex Claypool of Worthington, Pa. An OPA investigator charged that the Claypool farm violated price ceiling regulations last week.

It was the OPA's first legal move against "black markets" in turkey and profiteering. Meanwhile, OPA agents were on guard at farmers' stands and wholesale markets to prevent violations.

The injunction resulted from complaints by Pittsburgh wholesalers that they could not supply retailers with turkeys because of excessive prices demanded by farmers. While the farmers say they cannot make a profit under OPA price ceilings, the OPA insists that sufficient allowance has been made for food and other costs.

LABOR HEARING

With Peter F. Ward sitting as examiner, a labor hearing of the National Labor Relations Board in the case of a complaint originated by United Steel Workers of America (CIO) against the United Engineering and Foundry Co. was started Monday. The complaint charges unfair labor practices by the company in the discharge of John Peter Lukacs and Ralph Lark, who it is averred were discharged for union activities. The company's reply is that the men were discharged for inefficiency.

Witnesses called Monday morning testified to their being urged to join an American Federation of Labor affiliate instead of the CIO. The hearing will probably last through Wednesday.

Slide Fasteners Save Soldiers' Time

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 23.—(INS)—The slide fastener is helping doughboys in the field today not only on their clothing but in jungle hammocks and sleeping bags.

The Philadelphia Quartermaster depot recently described a new "quick-disassembly" feature which eliminates the need for drawing open the slide fastener. Reports from the front say that as a result the soldier can sprint out of the sleeping bag or hammock in a minute's notice and be ready for any eventuality.

Starting with the field jacket, which has proved to be one of the most popular garments ever designed by the army, the slide fastener has come into wide usage. The range of uniforms using the fasteners covers almost every branch of the army and fits into practically every climate. These outfits include parachute-jumpers' coats; sheepskin-lined coats for cold climates; women's skirts for nurses and WAC's; nurses' cotton seersucker slacks and double texture rubberized Parkas for cold climate clothing.

BAG RARE PHEASANT

ITHACA, N. Y.—(INS)—Two local hunters shot an albino pheasant on the farm of Franklin Cornell, descendant of Ezra Cornell, founder of Cornell University. They presented the bird to Mr. Cornell, who turned it over to the Ornithology Department at the university. The bird is such a rarity that this one is being mounted. The pheasant has red on the head and a light copper-colored breast.

Dick Hitchcock Wounded In Italy

Local Man Back In Action After Recovering From Wound
Received In September

Sgt. Richard E. "Dick" Hitchcock, aged 32 years, son of Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Hitchcock, of 322 Elizabeth street, is back in action against the Nazis in Italy, after being wounded on September 30, word received by his parents reveals.

Sgt. Hitchcock, who was a corporal when the action took place, was in the landing at Salerno, and was wounded a few days later. He was with a Commando unit attached to the Fifth Army. A Nazi rifle bullet went through the fleshy part of the hip, just missing the bone, but inflicting a clean wound, from which he made rapid recovery. He has been in service for almost two years and a half, having enlisted on May 16, 1941. He has been overseas since April 1942.

METALS SAVED FOR WAR USES

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 23.—(INS)—American steel is saving 559 million pounds of aluminum and copper by pinching their use for these metals in a wide range of war weapons redesigned by army ordinance.

By revising specifications for countless items from tanks to bullet cores, ordinance engineers have converted a vast number of parts to steel, thus saving 400 million pounds of copper and 119 million pounds of aluminum in 1942-1943.

According to information made available to the American Iron and Steel Institute, this huge quantity of metal will thus be freed for those vital uses in which copper and aluminum have special characteristics that make them irreplaceable.

It was an outstanding metallurgical achievement when artillery cartridge cases were converted from brass—a feat which had taken the Germans years of experimentation; and which American producers and fabricators of steel accomplished in six months.

Steel, pinch-hitting again, has made 119 million pounds of aluminum available for the aircraft industry. This is equivalent to about 10 per cent of the current output of aluminum.

Three Men Killed At Miami, Fla.

MIAMI, Fla., Nov. 23.—(INS)—Navy officials disclosed today that three men lost their lives over the week-end in accidents involving naval training planes from the Miami naval station.

Two men were killed and a third parachuted to safety when their plane collided with another over the Gulf stream three miles off Miami Beach late Sunday afternoon. The occupants of the second plane managed a water landing and were rescued. Those killed included Aviation Radioman John Bernhardt, son of Mrs. Elizabeth Bernhardt of Philadelphia. The pilot, third occupant of the plane, E. Charles M. Lemhor of Brooklyn, N. Y., parachuted to safety.

Those rescued included Ensign James H. Barnhill, pilot of Wilmington, Del.; Seaman L. R. Bacon, of Rosindale, Mass.; and Aviation Machinist Mate W. R. Kirkpatrick, Central City, N. J.

THE BARRELS FIGHT, TOO

HERE is a Navy Seabee artisan at work in the South Pacific war theater. He is welding emptied gasoline barrels into a pipe line. Laid to the front, the line will carry water to advancing jungle fighters.

The gasoline delivered in these barrels fights — and the drums fight, too. This is typical of the resourcefulness which makes American fighting men superior to the forces of the dictator nations.

Under government by regulation in the Axis lands, autocrats and bureaucrats do all the thinking for the masses. But in America, every citizen is an individual in his own right.

He chooses his own occupation. To make good in it, he must do his own thinking. Constantly meeting new situations as they arise becomes second nature to him. These are the qualities developed by the American competitive business system.

That system fostered the sort of ingenuity which makes jungle pipe lines of empty "gas" drums — and the enterprise which built the giant petroleum industry and converted it to war manufacture without waiting for instructions.

Petroleum is the food of modern war machines. Every weapon of offense or defense requires it. All transportation of men and supplies from America to global battle scenes is 90 per cent dependent on oil.

Neither in quality nor quantity of petroleum products does the Axis come close to approaching us. For that advantage we are indebted to the American competitive system. This same system is the assurance of freedom and opportunity for the returning warrior and his folks at home.

It is every American's heritage — and it is well worth fighting for.

BETHLEHEM—Army tests at Lehigh university proved the average physical efficiency of men under the army's student training program for a 12-week period was 21 per cent greater than that of men under the regular college program. The army trainees were ahead in muscular tone, strength and endurance.

PITTSBURGH—Lt. Richard S. Bull of Wilkesburg went down with the Lexington in the Coral sea battle, but his name will spur men on in future encounters. A destroyer, Richard S. Bull, was christened by his mother, Mrs. Richard S. Bull.

mistice was signed Sept. 8, 1943. With it he wrote: "When accompanied by a branch of a linden tree and a cherry tree, World War II will be history."

NO DOUBT BY JURY IN DECIDING CASE

WHEELING, W. Va., Nov. 23.—(INS)—The jury which heard the case against Walter Kordron, tried in connection with a $1,800 holdup set some kind of new judicial record today by returning a "guilty" verdict without hearing closing arguments by either the defense or the prosecution.

It took the jury just eight minutes to decide Kordron, who also took part in a jail break last Labor Day, was guilty of holding up "Big Franks" establishment in Wheeling last July 1. Kordron acted as his own attorney and cross-examined several of the state's witnesses, but refused to make any statement by way of a closing argument.

Only safe national motto in an uncivilized world: "Nobody slaps a man who has a knife in his hand."

Patterson Says Alaska Expense Was Justified

By ELLIOTT HAYES
(L. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—Under-secretary of War Robert Patterson told Congress today that the threat of a Japanese invasion justified the expenditure of millions of Alaskan defenses regardless of cost.

Patterson made this statement before the Senate Truman committee in answering criticism of Secretary of Interior Ickes that the spending of 138 millions on the Alaskan oil program was a waste of money and that the United States could recover nothing from the projects. Ickes was joined by two other high ranking government officials in criticizing the War Department's Alaskan projects.

Patterson took the stand following a long questioning of Col. James H. Graham, an assistant to Lieut. Gen. Brehon Somervell, chief of supply. Graham, on leave as dean of the engineering school of the University of Kentucky, was advisor to Somervell on the Canadian-Alaskan defenses.

Military Necessity

Graham said that only military necessity and not cost was considered in speeding the defense projects. These include the Alcan highway and a 35 million dollar refinery at White Horse, Canada, along with a network of pipelines, highways and airfields.

"The whole project was economically cockeyed from the beginning; even in peace time it would be unsound but in far you cannot consider cost and we proceeded solely on the basis of military necessity," Graham said.

"The War Department is proud of Canol," (as the Canadian oil project is known) Patterson told the committee.

"It was a bold undertaking. The results so far have surpassed our hopes. The Army took bold and prompt action in the dark days of 1942. We should not have been censured for having tried. Our enemies are the ones to be discouraged."

"We entered the war on dwindling reserves. It is easy enough to look back calmly on the first few months of the war and to apply the yardstick of hindsight to our efforts. But let us remember that we have no firm assurance that the continental United States was free from invasion. Defense of Alaska was paramount in the minds of the American people. This was a war measure. One might as well criticize the cost of capturing the Salerno bridgehead."

PRESIDENT GIVES POSTWAR PLANS TO AID VETERANS

honorable discharge or transfer to inactive duty, to be paid on a monthly installment basis.

(2) Establishment of a uniform system of allowances for unemployed servicemen and women to care for those who are unable to obtain jobs within a reasonable time after their return to civil life. This includes maritime unemployment insurance to take care of merchant marine personnel.

(3) Provide members of the armed forces with credit under the federal old-age and survivors' insurance law during their period of military service, funds to be provided by the government uniformly for all personnel irrespective of rank.

Further Steps Needed

Mr. Roosevelt called attention to steps already taken. These include life insurance at low premium rates, provision for hospitalization and medical care, vocational rehabilitation and training for the disabled, pension benefits, reemployment rights and provision for maternity care of the wives and infants of enlisted men.

"I believe that we must go much further," he said. "We must make provision now to help our returning service men and women bridge the gap from war to peace activity."

"When the war is over, our men and women in the armed forces will be eager to rejoin their families, get a job, or continue their education, and to pick up the threads of their former lives."

"They will return at a time when industry will be in the throes of reconversion. Our plans for demobilization of soldiers and sailors must be consistent with our plans for the reconversion of industry and for the creation of employment opportunities for both service men and war workers."

Educational Opportunities

Mr. Roosevelt recently sent recommendations to congress for enactment of legislation providing educational and training opportunities for the armed forces who wish to pursue their studies after discharge. Today's action was a further step for the transitional period and is designed to prevent wholesale economic disruption following the war.

The president told Congress that plans are now being formulated for "Reconverting wartime America to a peacetime basis." These plans will be submitted to Congress later.

"All of us are concentrating now on the one primary objective of winning this war," he told Congress. "But even as we devote our energy and resources to that purpose, we cannot neglect to plan for things to come after victory is won."

"What our service men and women want, more than anything else, is the assurance of satisfactory employment upon their return to civil life. The first task after the war is to provide employment for them and for our demobilized war workers."

BOOBY TRAP WORKS

ABERDEEN, Wash.—(INS)—It took a booby trap made of ten sticks of powder and a detonator gadget to end the thievery of a huge 400-pound bear who frequented the pig pen at Schaffer's Camp in the Wynoochee Oxbow district. The trap was set when the brute outsmarted a rifle ambush, and remained away from the pen. A terrific early morning explosion jarred the camp the day after the trap was set. On investigation, the loggers found the bear thrashing about the brush, groggy, but still full of fight. A rifle shot ended his appetite for pork, which cost the camp five pigs.

Says Rationing To Be Needed After War Is Concluded

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—(INS)—Secretary of Agriculture Claude Wickard warned congress today that the need for nation wide rationing will be more stringent immediately after the war than it is at the present time.

Wickard made this prediction before a senate post war planning committee in response to a question by Sen. Arthur Vandenberg (R) Mich.

Vandenberg asked the cabinet member if it was not true that more effective rationing will be required to feed the destitute people of a liberated Europe after the war ends. "Yes, that is true," Wickard replied.

"How stringent it is will depend on crop conditions, ability to produce, what stocks we have on hand and the speed of recovery by European peoples. However, I hope this will not be necessary for long."

Zoo Turkeys Are Locked Up Tightly

CHICAGO, Nov. 23.—(INS)—Robert Bean, assistant director of Chicago's Brookfield zoo, probably has as much faith in human nature as the average man, but there are limits.

Up till now, the fat and enticing turkeys out at the zoo have been roaming about at will in a spacious enclosure among the Buffalo. Only a waist high fence restrained them.

But today, with Thanksgiving just around the corner, and turkeys mighty hard to get, the turkeys were penned up with the pheasants in a tightly-locked cage, lest the temptation prove too great for someone who had not corralled his Thanksgiving dinner.

GREATEST BOMB RAID ON BERLIN MADE LAST NIGHT

heavyweight bombers, four of which were Canadian craft, were lost in the devastating assault.

First accounts of bomber crews showed that the concentrated saturation assault, which the Germans said was aimed at the heart of the capital, was highly effective.

"Last night Lancasters and Halifaxes of the R. C. A. F. were among the aircraft of the bomber command which attacked Berlin in great strength," the Canadian communiqué said.

"It was the heaviest yet made on the German capital and preliminary reports indicated the bombing was highly effective."

Second Huge Raid In 24 Days

The formidable raid, the second block-buster assault on the Reich capital in four days, was the fifth bombardment of major proportions carried out against Berlin. Although the entire force of heavyweights including Stirlings and Manchesteres in addition to the Halifaxes and Lancaster, was not believed to total 1,000 planes, present indications are that the attacking squadrons were not far below that figure.

The loss of 26 craft therefore represented a strikingly low percentage of the total force employed.

The bombing squadrons met almost solid banks of clouds practically all the way to the target. This condition normally would have resulted in recall of the planes from the mission but it is understood that pathfinder equipment has proved so successful of late in locating the targets with flares that the bombardment went off as scheduled.

To "Hamburg" Berlin

Observers believe it is the air ministry's policy to "Hamburg" Berlin and by spring time wipe out the capital as an administrative and industrial center. Some quarters felt that, given good weather and using the same number of planes now available, the feat can be achieved earlier.

In the initial German radio announcement confirming the raid, it was said that embassy buildings in the center of the Nazi capital were hit.

Targets in western Germany were battered simultaneously by speedy wooden Mosquito bombers and other craft of the bomber command planted mines in Nazi-controlled waters.

"Aircraft of the bomber command last night attacked Berlin in very great strength," said the communiqué.

"First reports indicate the attack was highly effective."

The bombardment was the second by fleets of heavy bombers in four days on the Reich capital and it appeared that the promised R. A. F. assault to destroy the city in the same manner that Hamburg was laid waste now is under way.

Stockholm, Nov. 23.—(INS)—The cultural, diplomatic and industrial centers of Berlin were reported in wreckage or flames today in the wake of the heaviest attack ever launched by the Royal Air Force against the German capital.

Reports reaching Stockholm over disrupted communication lines direct from Berlin and by way of other neutral capitals such as Bern told a story of utter devastation in the wake of the assault, described in one dispatch as heavier than any single attack made upon Hamburg, which is now a dead city.

Sweden itself suffered from the attack, as its legation building on the Tiergartenstrasse near the Japanese embassy was demolished. The Finnish legation also was destroyed, while the Hungarian and Danish legations were demolished or severely damaged.

At the Swiss consulate, all the windows were blasted out and some of the offices wrecked. There were not reports, however, of diplomatic casualties.

American soldiers slogging through the jungles of Guadalcanal and New Guinea need tough but comfortable shoes. That means the leather that goes into them must be tanner to perfection. Some of the best tannin for the purpose comes from barks, woods, nuts, and pods grown in the tropical regions of Haiti, Nicaragua, Mexico and other countries of middle America.

Berlin Raid Is Heavier Than Any Made On Hamburg

STOCKHOLM, Nov. 23.—(INS)—Last night's record raid on Berlin was heavier than any single assault ever visited on the devastated German port of Hamburg, reports from Zurich, Switzerland, said today.

Huge fires raged in the Nazi capital as a result of the attack, the dispatch said.

RESIST BY MAIL
NEW YORK.—(INS)—Even correspondence schools in Holland have become channels for anti-Nazi propaganda. A Nazi newspaper published in Holland on September 9 complained: "It's shameful that Netherlands institutes continue to lend themselves to enemy propaganda by patriotic correspondence courses." For instance, the paper said, the Hermes Institute in Amsterdam conducts a handwriting course by mail in which the lessons contain such sentences as: "Whose birthday is August 31?" and "Whose birthday is April 30?" giving the answers as Queen Wilhelmina and Princess Juliana.

Two Michigan Hunters Killed By Gun Shots

SCHEBOYGAN, Mich., Nov. 23.—(INS)—Fatalities in the deerhunting season rose to 13 today as two more hunters died after being shot accidentally.

Meanwhile, thousands of hunters headed for home without investigation from the OPA when the Cleveland regional office suddenly ordered ticketing of drivers dropped after 250 had been cited for violations.

Of the total number ticketed, 89 appeared for hearings and gas ration suspensions were ordered against 26.

Ask Coal Mines Run Thursday

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 23.—(INS)—Western Pennsylvania coal operators and miners were asked today to continue to operate the mines on Thanksgiving Day, in an appeal by C. J. Potter, deputy coal mines administrator.

"The fuel demands of the nation's war economy," Potter declared, "require that present production at the mines continues without interruption on Thanksgiving Day. It is the patriotic duty of the operators and the mine workers to see to it that no operating time is lost."

His message remarked that time-and-one-half would be paid for the holiday work, and that under the new agreement the premium pay would not interfere with overtime wages for work performed on the sixth operating day of the week.

Pittsburgh district steel mill officials said their operations will proceed on a "work as usual" basis for the holiday.

Starts Serving Life Term In Prison

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 23.—(INS)—Robert Ernst Hallowell, who for two years lived a model life as a dishwasher after participating in a fatal holdup, began serving a term of life imprisonment today for his part in the crime.

He is the third man to receive the same sentence for the slaying of John S. R. Shell, 36, a tavern operator during a stickup September 26, 1941. Hallowell was captured in Cedar Rapids, Ia., after his picture appeared in an article in "True Detective" magazine and was recognized by a patron of the tavern.

The others now serving life terms are Joseph Petras, confessed triggerman, and Charles (Duke) Milligan, driver of the car in which they escaped.

Hallowell had been paroled from prison in 1939 after serving nine years of a 12-to-80-year sentence on six robbery charges.

PROPOSED MEETING OF WORLD LEADING TRIO IS MYSTERY

Main Topic In Non-Diplomatic Circles In London; Diplomatic Circles Silent

By CHARLES A. SMITH
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)
LONDON, Nov. 23.—The main topic of conversation in non-diplomatic quarters in London today was the proposed meeting of President Roosevelt, Prime Minister Winston Churchill and Premier Joseph Stalin.

But in diplomatic circles mum was the word; no one would confirm or deny any rumors concerning such a meeting, all quarters frowned officially upon any speculation concerning such a possible meeting, and nobody would comment on the welter of Nazi-inspired radio reports which have been filling the European ether for several days concerning such a meeting.

Nazi-controlled radio France and the Parish radio both discussed alleged Washington dispatches concerning such a meeting in broadcasts Sunday. So did the Lahti radio in Finland.

It was interesting to note, however, that while the broadcasters in Nazi satellite countries or in German-occupied zones apparently were given the go ahead signal to indulge in even the wildest speculation concerning such a conference the German radio stations within the Reich have so far been absolutely silent on this score.

World-Wide Broadcast?

One London Sunday newspaper, the Empire News, published an article reporting that Roosevelt, Churchill, Stalin and Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek may participate in a world-wide broadcast over the British Broadcasting Corporation transmitter.

Only on this report could anything like an official statement be obtained.

An official of the BBC said "yes, such an idea is being considered." But he hastily added that "nothing yet is certain."

Then this British wireless official explained that such a broadcast doesn't require that the "big four" all be together and broadcast over the same microphone.

In fact, it would be quite simple for Churchill to speak from London, Roosevelt from Washington, Stalin from Moscow and Chiang from Chungking, and it would sound to listeners just as if all were in the same broadcasting studio.

But official diplomatic quarters would not comment even on this beyond admitting that "science certainly is wonderful" and "what would they think of next."

Huston Traces Progress Of Music

Rotary Club Hears Interesting Program On Development Of The Art Monday

Rotary club members heard an interesting program in connection with their meeting in The Castle Monday noon when Jack Huston traced the development of music from its discovery among the primitive people of the world, up to its present high development.

The earliest form of music was of the percussion type, namely, drums, cymbals, etc., he stated, and later came the flutes, reeds, whistles, horns and finally, stringed instruments.

He illustrated the development of vocal music by using a group chanting a single word, then group of words, and then a round, accompanied by the stamping of the feet and clapping of the hands.

A letter was read from the Rotary club of Bury, Lancashire, England, which was received by President Joe McPate, telling about the club having recently had as its guest, Lt. Kenneth G. Farver, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. O. Farver of 801 West Clayton street, who was attending a nearby college of military science.

RULING MADE ON OIL LEASE SALES

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—(INS)—The Supreme Court ruled that sale of oil leases is a sale of securities under terms of the Securities and Exchange act. The decision was 7 to 1, with Justice Roberts dissenting.

The case was brought to the court on appeal of the Securities and Exchange commission, which contended that the investment contracts represented sales of interest in a business enterprise rather than physical property.

The controversy involved the C. M. Joiner Leasing Corp., which sold interest in oil leases in a 3,000 acre tract in McCulloch county in west central Texas.

CREW TO SECURE NEW LANDING SHIP

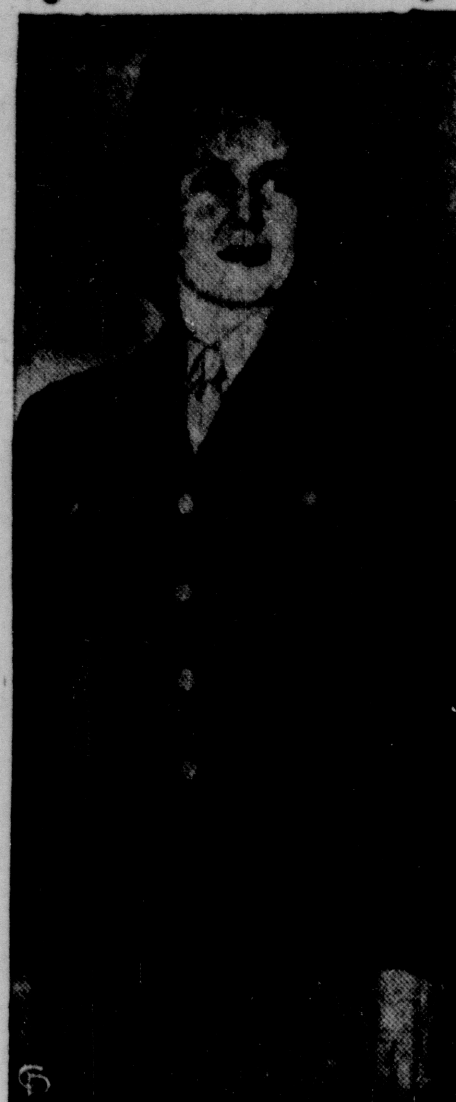

AMBRIDGE, Pa. Nov. 23.—(INS)—Lieut. R. C. Adams, commander of a landing ship for tanks which was torpedoed during the early phases of the European invasion returns to the command of another LST today with 40 of his original crew of 70.

The other 30 were lost when the ship was sunk. Today, at the American Bridge company plant of United States Steel, Lieutenant Adams and his crew, supplemented by new men will witness the commissioning of another LST and will then sail it down the Ohio, into the Mississippi and out into the ocean to avenge the deaths of the "absent" 30.

SIX CHILDREN BURN TO DEATH

Children Trapped In Blazing Home In Chicago Heights During Night

CHICAGO, Nov. 23.—(INS)—Six children ranging in age from one to 15 years were burned to death early today in a fire which destroyed their two-story frame house in Chicago Heights, south of Chicago.

Their parents, John and Alice Hoogewoning, were seriously burned in a desperate effort to save the children's lives.

They were saved from possibly fatal burns when a neighbor, attracted by the flames, rushed to the scene, ran to the second floor bedroom and dragged the couple from the blazing structure. They were taken to the hospital.

The children burned to death were Cornelius, 15; John, Jr., 14; William, 10; Johanna, 9; Helen, 6 and Christian, 1.

It was several hours before members of the Chicago Heights and Homewood fire departments could enter the smoldering ruins to recover the bodies.

Two other children of the family escaped. They were Carl, 3, and Garrie, 17. They were taken to a neighbor's home.

Even war wages can't tempt smugglers. They can make $15.20 profit on each gallon of alcohol slipped in from Mexico.

For real fuel economy.

Check these points in your home...

Our Government asks us to conserve fuels, manpower, transportation, critical materials

This winter, you are asked to conserve fuels. You can do it and still keep your home comfortable... through roof and wall insulation, storm windows and doors, weatherstripping and caulking. For when you cut down heat loss you make more efficient use of your heating plant... besides saving money for yourself year after year and saving fuel now for war production.

So check with dealers in these materials and services and see for yourself how much you can save in your own home. And be patient, if it takes a little time, for your dealer is doing his best under difficulties.

And, after the war—

Right now Natural Gas is a valued material of war production, so its use is restricted. But if your home is properly "winter-proofed" you will be in better position than ever to enjoy all the automatic advantages of clean Gas heat after the war ends.

Protest Telegrams Deluge CongressAnti-Subsidy Congressmen Get Hundreds Of Messages From Groups

By WILLIAM THEIS
 (U. S. Staff Correspondent)
 WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—Anti-subsidy congressmen were deluged with protest telegrams today as the subsidy-banning commodity credit corporation bill came up for expected house passage.

"I've never had such pressure before, especially from organizations representing consumer groups," said Chairman Cannon (D) Mo., of the appropriations committee, an opponent of the administration subsidy program.

One New York Republican member's office reported receiving 250 telegrams urging defeat of the CCC bill with its Dec. 31 deadline for ending consumer food subsidies.

Rep. Taber (R) N. Y., branded half a dozen messages he received as "fake telegrams" similar to those they claimed were sent by the utilities in the days of the securities and exchange commission fight.

One of the telegraph offices serving the congressional office buildings estimated it had handled 7,000 or 8,000 messages Monday, "about 6,000 above normal." The flood of telegrams apparently was timed for a vote yesterday, but action on the subsidy bill was postponed until today.

World Relief Distribution To Be AnonymousBy PHILIP G. REED

(U. S. Staff Correspondent)
 ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Nov. 23.—(INS)—The United Nations were agreed today to avoid the pitfalls of lend-lease and remain anonymous in the distribution of world relief so that no country gets credit where no credit is due.

The label of "Unrra" may take its place as an international household word along with "Red Cross" and "Ford" under the proposed setup.

Delegates from some of the 44 united and associate nations have been frank to say that they hope distribution of their national property will help improve foreign commercial trade later.

But it is not expected that the present council meeting will take any action on the subject, which has been brought up informally as the result of recent controversy over the United States proper identification as the source of lend-lease materials distributed abroad.

In view of the prevailing agreement, it was considered likely that the job of developing a world-relief trademark would be left to Director General Herbert H. Lehman.

Local Resident Visits Injured Son

The local residents report that he is in a good condition, and his injuries were to his right foot, which is now in a cast. He will return to his home for an indefinite stay within a week or two. He extends greetings here to all his friends.

World Relief Distribution To Be Anonymous
 By PHILIP G. REED
 (U. S. Staff Correspondent)
 ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Nov. 23.—(INS)—The United Nations were agreed today to avoid the pitfalls of lend-lease and remain anonymous in the distribution of world relief so that no country gets credit where no credit is due.

The label of "Unrra" may take its place as an international household word along with "Red Cross" and "Ford" under the proposed setup.

Delegates from some of the 44 united and associate nations have been frank to say that they hope distribution of their national property will help improve foreign commercial trade later.

The label of "Unrra" may take its place as an international household word along with "Red Cross" and "Ford" under the proposed setup.

Delegates from some of the 44 united and associate nations have been frank to say that they hope distribution of their national property will help improve foreign commercial trade later.

But it is not expected that the present council meeting will take any action on the subject, which has been brought up informally as the result of recent controversy over the United States proper identification as the source of lend-lease materials distributed abroad.

In view of the prevailing agreement, it was considered likely that the job of developing a world-relief trademark would be left to Director General Herbert H. Lehman.

Boy Pleads Guilty To Slaying Girl
 Poughkeepsie, N. Y., Nov. 23.—(INS)—Thirteen-year-old Edwin Codarre, confessed attack-slayer of a 10-year-old girl, today saved himself from the electric chair by pleading guilty to second degree murder.

While Edwin's mother, Mrs. Irene Bishop, sobbed audibly, Defense Counsel Alexander Dow entered the surprise plea before County Judge J. Gordon Flannery.

Judge Flannery looked at the boy, his mother and his attorney, and said simply:

"I'm glad this happened. It would be no pleasure to send a boy so young to the electric chair. Thank God it isn't on my shoulders."

Although Edwin now faces a maximum sentence of life imprisonment for slaying Elizabeth Voight of East Fishkill, N. Y., on August 13, District Attorney John R. Schwartz indicated that Edwin would be sent to a correction school.

HORSEMEAT DAILY
 CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Nov. 23.—(INS)—The Faculty club at Harvard university is pioneering the use of horsemeat, daily featuring a horse steak, it was disclosed today.

Onions and potato salad go with it, and between 15 and 20 customers order it daily.

Jap Propaganda Starts On GilbertsNEW YORK, Nov. 23.—(INS)—

Japanese propagandists—whose recent fantastic claims of tremendous sea and air "victories" off Bougainville were exploded by American military spokesmen as a gigantic hoax—today began putting out their first claims on "victories" alleged to have been scored in the Gilbert Islands.

The Japs said nothing about the American announcement that Marines had landed on Abemama, the third Gilbert Island said to be invaded by American forces.

Both the Tokyo short-wave radio—which told the United States that "there is again a great naval victory for Japan"—and the Japanese Domei agency put out the first Gilbert claims contained in an Imperial headquarters communique.

Huge Construction Program Is Seen For Naval Service
 WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—(INS)—Sen. David I. Walsh (D) Mass., chairman of the Senate naval affairs committee, introduced a bill today authorizing the navy to undertake a new three billion 600 million dollar program for construction of landing craft and auxiliary vessels for amphibious warfare.

A request by the navy for such a large sum presages important landing and invasion campaigns against both Germany and Japan.

The bill authorizes the navy to build or acquire two and one-half million tons of auxiliary vessels and one million tons of landing craft.

Sen. Walsh said the program would include auxiliary aircraft carriers, ammunition ships, refrigerator ships, cargo ships, mine sweepers, tankers, tramp boats, airplane transport ships, and various other auxiliary vessels.

PHILADELPHIA CORONER DIES
 PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 23.—(INS)—Dr. Herbert M. Goddard, physician and coroner of Philadelphia, died at his mid-city residence today following a prolonged illness.

Lebanese-French Crisis Not Ended
 CAIRO, Nov. 23.—(INS)—That the Lebanese-French crisis was by no means over was clear today when Beirut crowds were reported to have occupied more public buildings and anti-French demonstrations continued.

Reports from Beirut said that among other things that disturbed the Lebanese is the French insistence on using the word "mandate" when referring to the Lebanon.

While there were no reports of any serious violence, dispatches told of Lebanese mobs marching in and occupying the police station, the ministry of public works and the ministry of supply buildings in Beirut.

Reports from Beirut said the dismissed chief of police was at the head of the demonstrators.

The general strike still remained in force, street cars were not running and most shops and stores remained closed, their windows covered by wooden shutters.

BERLIN IS HUGE SEA OF FLAMES AFTER BOMBING

By GLADWIN HILL
Representing the Combined American Press

Distributed By International News Service
AN R. A. F. BOMBER BASE IN THE MIDLANDS, Nov. 23.—Berlin was a great sea of flames and explosions which even through a solid cloud overcast could be seen 70 miles by fliers returning from what was probably the heaviest attack of the war on the German capital.

The fliers, some of whom went through the London "blitz" and were getting their first chance to pitch it back at the Germans, said they did not see how a city could hold out under many such bombardments.

And their success in executing the raid despite what once were regarded as impossible conditions pointed only to one thing: the raids are going to be continued, probably in constantly increasing force, until Berlin and the Germans are through.

The R. A. F.'s remarkable path-finding system by which the bombers arrived over Berlin to find their targets plainly outlined by flames dropped by advance planes turned once-hampering clouds to advantage.

The clouds were so thick the Germans apparently were unable to get their night fighters off the ground—the boys here did not see a single German plane—and figured it useless even to try a searchlight barrage.

All Berlin could do was to cringe and take it, tossing up a great flak barrage but a vain one. From a force numbering possibly a thousand or more bombers it took scarcely more than would be expected from engine trouble or other exigencies.

The bombers hit Berlin about 8 p. m. one of the earliest attacks yet. It was midnight when through the static on the control tower radio came a hoarse but cheery voice: "U for Uncle Calling, U for Uncle Calling." The first plane was back in the star-speckled sky. Two of the stars suddenly swung down toward the field together—the plane's landing lights.

"There she is—there's the first one coming in."

The plane, guided only by two rows of tiny lights, dropped in closer. There was a breath-holding moment while you wondered if it was going to hit the runway too hard. Then the course of the two lights leveled off and you realized the pilot had set her safely on the ground.

They were back from Berlin. It was their coldest trip yet. Some of the boys got icicles on their eyelids. There had been wing-icing conditions up in the air but fortunately they had been able to fly over it.

SNOW REMOVAL PLANS FOR STATE

Nearly 20,000 Miles Of Highway To Be Kept Open For Safe Travel

HARRISBURG, Nov. 23.—The Pennsylvania Department of Highways has turned its attention to the chief winter maintenance operations—plowing snow and cinderizing roads. Secretary John U. Shroyer said today.

This winter the Department of Highways has committed itself to provide complete snow removal service on 19,954 miles of State highways, a slight increase over last year's mileage. This mileage includes all of the important roads in the State. During the winter of 1942-43, the Department expended $4,395,504 for this work and this year $4,265,200 has been allocated for snow removal project.

Getting ready for the snow removal program includes such items as placing approximately 2,429 miles of snow fence, repairing 1,068 trucks and 78 tractors, and attaching snow plows to this equipment.

"To carry out a snow removal program as extensive as this," Shroyer said, "a complete plan of operation is required as well as a balanced organization to handle it effectively. Our object is to have an organization that can go into action within an hour's time, day or night, whenever snow or ice storms occur and to keep going day or night as long as the emergency exists. Such arrangements to combat expected storms must be made well in advance of their arrival."

"However, this season the Department is encountering many difficulties in setting up the program to meet our objectives. The average age of the equipment now owned by the Department is approximately four years. This is because replacements have not been obtainable in the past two years. Equipment operators are scarce and it is almost impossible to obtain sufficient high-carbon steel to supply our requirements for snow plow blades."

"Despite these obstacles, we expect to do our level best to keep the highways of Pennsylvania in the finest condition in order to maintain the Department's record and reputation for keeping the roads open for travel, so that the flow of materials to and from war plants and the transportation of workers to these establishments may continue."

The Secretary said the Department's equipment engineers and mechanics have been working for several months repairing equipment, using whatever spare parts were available and making others. Many maintenance shortcuts and expedients hitherto thought unusable have necessarily been employed.

RENT ACTION IS TAKEN BY O.P.A.

SCRANTON, Pa., Nov. 23.—(INS)—The Office of Price Administration today filed action in federal court at Scranton against Harry B. Slaughterhaup, of Chambersburg, charging him with violating maximum rent regulations in a defense rental area.

Attorney Charles J. Ware, OPA enforcement officer, requested a mandatory injunction requiring Slaughterhaup to make restitution of $120 to George and Grace Ludwig. The sum was said to represent an advance payment which Slaughterhaup is alleged to have demanded from the couple before renting them an apartment in Chambersburg for $60 a month.

The OPA also maintained that Slaughterhaup did not file, as required, a notice of change of tenancy in five instances, and requested that he be restrained from further violations.

Liberated Peoples Will Have Chance To Choose Leaders

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Nov. 23.—(INS)—Assistant Secretary of State Adolf Berle, Jr., served notice today that the United States Government is not going to impose on the liberated peoples of Europe any political refugee groups or movements which have flowered in exile.

In a speech before the Knoxville Rotary club, Berle said the American government is determined to give the liberated peoples an opportunity to choose freely their own leaders and form of governments.

The American policy, Berle added, is to "open the way for healthy political evolution" in the liberated territories.

"This does not please some who are anxious for partisans of particular political factions," he said. "Nor does it satisfy some European political personalities who have found refuge on our shores. Yet it is the only wise and sound course."

Berle pointed out that some of the European exile leaders claim to speak for their respective countries. He said these claims must be referred to the people of the liberated countries for their judgment.

Clemency Pleas Strongly Opposed

Allegheny County Official Appears Before Pardon Board Hearings Today

HARRISBURG, Nov. 23.—(INS)—Ralph T. Bell, Allegheny County assistant district attorney, strongly opposed clemency appeals presented to the state board of pardons at Harrisburg today by four Pittsburgh life-term convicts.

The commutation pleas were presented by John Suzensky, 30, Fred Kuchneisen, 28, Charles Rick, Jr., 36, and Harold E. Smith. Suzensky, together with an accomplice, was sentenced to life imprisonment in 1933 for the fatal shooting of Charles F. Huber, 68, proprietor of an East Liberty drug store during an attempted holdup.

Kuchneisen was found guilty of murder in the holdup of the Beltz-Hoover Hotel in March, 1937, during which a scuffle ensued and the owner, Frank P. Welker, was killed. Bell emphatically argued against commutation of Rick who was sentenced to life imprisonment for his part in the slaying of James Hughes, a Pittsburgh policeman. In December, 1929, Rick and two accomplices held up a small grocery store and tried to make a running get-away, but Hughes' intervention foiled their escape. The officer commanded a passing automobile and gave chase until he spotted the men. They immediately opened fire and in a running gunbattle Hughes was mortally wounded.

Smith's commutation was opposed because the slaying in which he was involved was the result of a pre-arranged scheme to rob an uncle of one of his accomplices of an insurance premium. The 14-year-old cousin of the accomplice was in the house at the time of the attempted robbery and was killed almost instantly by a bullet when he screamed. The slaying occurred in 1931, a year after Smith had been released on parole from the Ohio State Penitentiary.

Bell also opposed commutation of the 20 to 40 year sentence imposed on Fred Craven, 55, of Pittsburgh, for robbing two chain stores of $239.

Gene Sarazen Will Play Golf Just For Fun

Famous Star, Now Hospitalized, Says He's Finished As Serious Competitor

By DAVIS J. WALSH
International News Service
Sports Writer

CHICAGO, Nov. 23.—Gene Sarazen, last of an almost exalted line of champions from a dynasty that flourished during the so-called golden age of sports, is finished as a "serious" competitor, he informed the writer today.

The others . . . Ruth, Dempsey, Tunney, Bobby Jones, Hagen, Cobb and Grange . . . Have passed long since into their athletic dotage. Sarazen, winner of American and British golf championships in a highly theatrical way, alone had remained as a link with the romantic past; not only as a contender, but a serious one.

He was just that serious, in fact, that he tied for the national open the next-to-the-last time it was held, in 1940. But no more. The document is closed, the chapter finished. And so is Sarazen.

"Oh, I'll play in the open, but just for the fun of it," he said from his bed in the Presbyterian hospital where he's recuperating from a minor ailment. "I'm 42 my next birthday, and I'm not kidding myself. Pretty soon, it won't be a question of whether I can play four rounds in a championship, but whether I can walk them."

Play For Fun

"I'll play one round or two or three; even four, if I'm having fun. But once it gets to be work, I'll walk right off the course. Quietly, you know, while nobody's noticing."

A year ago, it might have been different. In fact, he'd been considering one last, desperate fling at the championship. Why? Because, if there had been a championship, it quite probably would have been held here at Skokie where Sarazen first won the title at the age of 20. "I always flatter hunches," Sarazen explained. "I won at Skokie in 1922. I took both the American and British championships in 1932, and here I'd have been back again at Skokie in 1942. Why, I was going to train, practice, diet and rest. I'd have really put on a show. I'm positive. But it just wasn't to be. And now it never will."

When you think of the romance and tradition and glamor that Sarazen has given golf, never can only be a word that you use with genuine regret.

PERFECT EXIT

Bessemer, Shenango On Pre-season Card

Bessemer Initial Foe; 17-Game Schedule Announced; Preliminary Drills Underway

Pre-season contests with Bessemer and Shenango Township high form part of New Castle high's incomplete 17-game basketball schedule released today by Faculty Manager Ralph H. Gardner.

The 'Canes start flipping 'em on Friday night, December 10, by playing host to Bessemer high's red and black clad quint on George Washington junior high floor.

Play Sharon-Farrell

Shenango follows on December 17 and Kittanning is billed for a home date the following night. Games with Sharon, Farrell and Youngstown East round out the pre-season engagements.

New Castle invades Aliquippa on January 7 in the Section 3 WPAL race opener.

Gardner announced that 12 to 15 home games will be played. To date, 11 have been scheduled.

With two regulars from last season still available and a flashy crop coming up from the reserves and the junior highs, the locals should enjoy more success than in 1942 when they hit a new low by dropping 17 decisions.

"Billy" Andrews and Fred Wimer are the lone vets. The team probably will be built around the accurate shooting pair.

Other candidates in the thick of the battle for varsity berths include: Bob Jackson, Robert Preston, Don Logan, Bill Orend, Ted Lewis, Bill Fisher, Pete Stack, Richard Whitaker, Bill Fannin, Edward Jackson, Bill McCallum, Ray Owoc and Steve Waslewski. Fannin is an ex-Ben Franklin star while Whitaker and Stack featured at George Washington.

Lists Ticket Prices

Gardner also announced the following ticket prices: Admission: adults 55 cents; students 22 cents; reserved seats 75 cents.

Season tickets: students, $1.81 plus 19 cent tax; $2.00; reserved seats—$4.50 plus 45 cents—$4.95.

Preliminary games will be played before the start of varsity contests. There is a possibility, Gardner said, that the Franklin-Washington junior high clashes may serve as preliminaries.

In between halves, the boys' and girls' gym classes expect to present exhibitions.

PLAY IN BIG TIME

Penn State's basketball team will play at Convention Hall, Philadelphia, and Madison Square Garden, New York, this winter.

Report Carnera Captured; May Be Shot By Germans

Story Brings Back Memories Of Primo's Ring Career In America

By DAVIS J. WALSH
International News Service Sports Writer

CHICAGO, Nov. 23.—From the Swiss-Italian frontier came the story today that Primo Carnera, the colossal oaf, had been captured by the Nazis and would presently face a firing squad. Yes, destiny dealing its last, grim joke to an unfortunate lumbar who consistently drew the low card from this blind draw they call life. A firing squad! He always was a little hard to miss.

That is, by Joe Louis and Max Baer. As a matter of fact, he was a born Patsy for the pair of them, though for different reasons. With Louis, it was a case of being able to do anything his instinct dictated . . . even to reaching upward six inches with a right cross and then, with an elastic wrist, draping the punch over Carnera's extended left and down to the jaw for the knockout.

Remember Baer?

As for Baer, he couldn't miss Carnera because of what somebody called his boola-boola punch . . . probably because it came by way of New Haven. It was so long, anyhow, that Carnera (taught by Abe Attell to rear back when anybody led at him) invariably pulled into the finish of it.

But don't be too far astray by adverse estimates of the big bloke's ability. He was a far better fighter than he generally was given credit for; so good, in fact, that for quite a spell Louis and Baer were the only guys who could lick him.

Sharkey couldn't. Schmeling wouldn't even try. They were short-armed heavyweights. But Sharkey tried twice, not learning enough in the first fight to stay resolutely away from the second.

Anyhow, with the second Sharkey fight, Carnera came into the heavyweight championship, and held it exactly a year.

For the first time they did was give him Baer. Baer threw the boola-boola. Carnera pulled back, caught the end of it and went down.

Altogether, Baer led with about 16 punches . . . and scored 13 knockdowns, the first of which found both parties sprawled out with an alarming "gal-umph" on the floor. Baer's punch was so terrific it carried him on down with its momentum; and, living there, he impishly gazed at the stunned giant.

"Last one up is a sissy!"

All told, it was a bolstering evening and it did a lot of things to Carnera, besides taking his title. For one thing, his management had "cuffed" the garden crowd all the way up to the elbow (for $16,000) . . . and the fighter's end was less than $20,000. For another, it shattered a sense of illusion, without which no fighter can hope long to survive. Carnera didn't.

In less than two years, all he had left was his wife. And now, by way of final catastrophe, it seems the Nazis have plans about that, too.

Sports Ramblings

Sports Squibs—

There are a few fans throughout the nation who advocate installation of the intricate T-formation in high school football. If some of the local members of this set were at the stadium Saturday afternoon, they must have seen with their own eyes that Clark Shaughnessy's system is workable in collegiate and professional ranks but definitely no soap in the schoolboy circle.

For the benefit of those who did not see the Warren game, New Castle tried the puzzle-like T at the start of the third. The shift from Warner to T proved the locals' undoing. On their first attempt, NC drew a 5-yard penalty for backfield misplay in motion. Attempt No. 2 was nothing more than a backfield mixup and a fumble which Warren recovered on the 9 and scored three plays later. The locals had been practicing the T all season and, since everything else was failing, the head man probably figured it wouldn't hurt to try something different . . .

Basically, the T is old and seemingly simple. Complicated spinners, hidden ball plays, triple reverses and the like, all keyed by deception, form part of the intricacies of the T. The backs, particularly the quarterback who miffs the ball all the time, must be exceptionally proficient in tossing around the pigskin. It's unfair to expect so much finesse in high school boys . . .

John Eagleson, former New Wilmington high coach now piloting Oakmont high, has undergone the US Army preliminary examination. St. Joseph's church undefeated eleven, winner of the Catholic Football League, is coached by genial Rev. Fr. John M. Unger . . . Basketball makes a sudden entrance into the local sports scene Saturday night with Westminster entertaining Camp Reynolds . . .

Short and sweet: Missouri's 7-6 surprise loss to Kansas university cost the local grid waging fraternity a pretty penny last Saturday . . . Allegheny college has reconsidered its recent decision to abandon basketball. Bob Garbark, the ex-Chi Cub backstop, will mentor the Gators again . . . Minnesota's nickname is most appropriate this season. The Gophers have been in the hole practically the entire campaign . . .

Hee Highton, the 19-year-old goal tender for the Chicago Hawks, is an old hand at the game. He has been playing amateur hockey since he was 13 . . . Count Fleet, 10-race winner before suffering a foot injury, has been retired for the winter on a Kentucky farm . . . K. M. Landis washes his hair daily. No wonder it's so snowy white and he likes to show it . . .

TITANS TO PLAY OKLAHOMA AGGIES

Contest Booked At Buffalo On Dec. 11; Schedule Now Includes 19 Games

NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., Nov. 23.—Westminster college added another game to its schedule, opposing Oklahoma A and M as part of a doubleheader on Saturday, December 11, at Buffalo, according to Athletic Director Grover C. Washburn. In addition to the Aggies, the Titans will play Oklahoma U. at Buffalo, March 4.

The 1943-44 schedule that opens Saturday, November 27, at home against Camp Reynolds includes 19 games at the present time, eight on the home floor and 11 away.

Shortstop Juges Rejected By Army

NEW YORK, Nov. 23.—(INS)—A long-forgotten ankle fracture which suffered while playing in the minors 14 years ago today returned Captain Billy Juges to manpower depleted baseball and the New York Giants.

The veteran shortstop, recently classified as 1-A, was reminded of the long-forgotten injury when he reported for Army physical examination yesterday. Although uncomplainingly pursuing his civilian duties under the handicap of severe head pains, it was the hurt which he suffered while playing with the International league that sent Juges back to the wartime bench and the Giant diamond.

He is 35 and the father of an eight-year-old daughter.

Belloise-Williams To Fight On Dec. 6

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 23.—(INS)—Steve Belloise, New York contender for the middleweight championship, and Holman Williams, clever Chicago Negro, were signed today to meet in a 10-round bout at the Philadelphia Arena, Monday night December 6.

At the same time, Promoter Herman Taylor announced that Julie Kogan of New Haven and Joey Amico, Philadelphia lightweight, will face each other in the semi-final of the same card. On the same night two Baltimore boxers, Jimmy Phillips and Maxie Starr, will battle a pair of Philadelphians, Panta Bucsa and Young Roundtree respectively.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS LAND

Sonny Horne and his 17 year old brother Rollin, both of whom fought here as amateurs are in service Rollin joined the navy some time ago. Sonny is in maritime service. Colonel Matt Winn, the grand old man of Derby racing, is getting ready to stage the 1944 Kentucky Derby, at Churchill Downs.

Plans are under way to hold amateur boxing in Sharon. It has been a long time since bouts were held in that city. Defence college has dropped basketball. Nick Shinkoff, former metropolitan scout for Bill Terry and his Yankees, is now stationed at Camp Reynolds.

Lee Handley expects to be back at third base for the pirates next year, having reportedly recovered from an army injury. Boy Scouts will be paid by the State Game commission 50 cents for each rabbit trapped and turned over to a game protector if commission traps are used.

ORTIZ'S BANTAM CROWN ON LINE IN SETTO TONIGHT

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 23.—(INS)—Manuel Ortiz, who will defend his world's bantamweight crown for the eighth time this year, ruled a 3 to 1 favorite today to whip Benny Goldberg in their 15-round title fight tonight at Olympic auditorium.

If Ortiz will break a mark set by Heavyweight Champion Joe Louis who successfully defended his title seven times in 1941. Goldberg has won 22 consecutive fights.

GEORGIA-TECH PLAY SATURDAY

Engineers Rated Too Tough For Wally Butts' 17-Year-Old Bullpups

Nov. 28, 1942—Georgia's Bulldogs, will play host in Allentown today to Georgia Tech in one of the most important games ever played between the schools. A bowl bid is at stake.

Nov. 23, 1943—Georgia's Bulldogs, with six wins and three losses in their class of hard hit war time college eleven, are drilling strenuously for the rival game with Tech in Atlanta on Saturday, when they will be showing bravery by just trotting on the same gridiron with the powerful Yellow Jackets who rate eighth in the nation.

It is a much different outlook for Coach Wallace Butts, hailed by many as tops in the country last season. He went in to that Tech game with Georgia's greatest eleven, the best in the nation. He had only to prove the Auburn game was a fluke by downing the Jacks, 34 to 0, and continuing to capture the Rose Bowl crown with a win over U. C. L. A.

Babe Ruth led the American League in bases on balls 11 times. In 1923 he walked 170 times.

Name Don Bennett Titans' Captain

East Liverpool Sophomore Star Appointed By Coach Grover C. Washabaugh

NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., Nov. 23.—Donald "Rube" Bennett, 6-foot 3-inch sophomore from East Liverpool, Ohio, has been appointed captain of the Westminster Titans for the 1943-44 basketball season by Coach Grover C. Washabaugh.

Only holdover from last year Bennett was called by the Army Air Corps at the tail end of last season but received a medical discharge and returned to school in September. "Rube" was a dependable substitute last season, being a dead shot.

While at East Liverpool high school, Bennett won two varsity letters, playing forward for Coach William Laughlin's squad.

Shans Defeated By Ellis Phillips

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 23.—(INS)—Ellis Phillips, Quaker city glover, held a 10-round upset decision today over Cleo Shans, Los Angeles light weight, following their windup bout at the arena before 6,000 fans.

Phillips with the odds 12-5 against him, hurt Shans with the very first punch of the fight, and dropped the Pacific coast Negro in the fifth round and twice in the eighth. Shans came back to win the late rounds after suffering a badly bruised or fractured hand early in the match.

Eddie Giosa scored his 19th victory and his second verdict from Frankie Donato in the eight-round semi-windup.

Gen. Eisenhower Says Soldier Was Slapped By Patton

Denies, However, That Any Official Reprimand Was Given To Officer

ALGERS, Nov. 23.—(INS)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower disclosed to war correspondents today that on one occasion while visiting a front-line hospital in Sicily, Lieut. Gen. George Patton, commander of the United States seventh army, did slap an American soldier whom he thought was malingering.

This disclosure was made at an extraordinary news conference by a high-ranking officer of Eisenhower's staff, who said that as soon as Eisenhower heard of the matter, "he handled it in his usual forceful way."

Gen. Eisenhower's spokesman repeated, however, previous official statements that Patton had not been officially reprimanded, and that nothing would appear on his official record concerning the incident.

The official disclosure of the slapping incident was forced upon Gen. Eisenhower by a report of the affair published by Washington Columnist Drew Pearson, who stated that Patton was severely reprimanded by Gen. Eisenhower.

Gen. Eisenhower's spokesman reiterated that Patton was not reprimanded, this time in military parlance involving official punishment. Gen. Eisenhower did, however, mercilessly castigate Patton over the affair, he said.

Patton subsequently apologized to the soldier, the hospital commander, the nurse and the doctor involved in the incident, the spokesman said, and then Patton called on each division in the seventh army, related the incident, explained that his feelings got the better of him and that he was "very regretful."

URGES INSPECTION SOON

HARRISBURG, Nov. 23.—(INS)—Secretary of Revenue David W. Harris cautioned motorists today that the wartime shortage of garage mechanics will not permit prompt inspection of automobiles during the next three months. The deadline for new inspection stickers is January 31.

Harris urged motorists to have their cars inspected early because garages were suffering a severe manpower shortage and would not be able to meet a last-minute rush.
